SUIT AGAINST STEAMER WESTERLY

Owners of Canal Boat Claim Captain Took Wrecked Barge Through Dangerous Channel—Two Weeks' Mission Opens—Death of George E. Stillman—Michael Donohue Fatally Injured.

Battle Daley and Nellie Pollette, owners of the canal boat Elmer D. Walling, having brought suit against the steamer Westerly, the case was heard Saturday in the United States district court, Providence, before Judge Arthur L. Brown. The Westerly was towing the Walling loaded with granite paving blocks from Westerly to Stonington, on Nov. 22, 1913, when the Walling ran aground in a submerged rock and was damaged. The claim of the libellants is that the tugboat took the regular channel, and in the course known to be strewn with rocks. This claim is made by the libellants, yet it is conceded that Captain Frank H. Robinson, of the Westerly, is the most experienced navigator of the Pawcatuck river, and therefore would not likely to pilot his own boat and his tow in a course known to be strewn with rocks.

The Westerly towing company's answer to the suit is that the barge was being towed in the regular channel which had been dredged in 1913, and that the rocks which the Walling struck was an uncharted and unknown one. It is also claimed that the draught of the Walling was mistaken to Judge Robinson. The libellants are represented by Macklin, Brown and Purdy.

At 8 o'clock and a very pleasant evening was passed.

Compare LIBERTY with the "Big Looking" Packages of Long Cut Tobacco!

ALL Good Tobacco Like This

5c

LIBERTY comes only in long, silky shreds, because only long, unbroken leaf is used in making it.

That means LIBERTY is a real long cut.

And LIBERTY is absolutely free from loose, hard stems—they're picked out by hand.

That means LIBERTY is real tobacco.

LIBERTY packs right down into your pipe for a cool, slow-burning smoke. Or rolls into a wad of juicy sweetness for a husky, lasting, man-size chew.

LIBERTY is made of full-bodied, full-flavored Kentucky tobacco. And the aging we give this rich leaf—up to five years—puts a satisfying relish into LIBERTY that just suits hearty chewers and smokers from the ground up.

When a man who knows a man's tobacco gives LIBERTY the once over he sticks to it for keeps. So will you.
